Bachelor of Arts: University of Colorado Boulder – Psychology and English Literature

Master of Arts and PhD studies: University of Colorado Denver – English Education, Instruction and Curriculum; Education Research and Studies, Urban Ecologies Focus

A fifth generation Coloradan from Walden, North Park, I grew up in schools as the son of a 35 year fifth grade teacher. After completing my Bachelor of Arts at the University of Colorado Boulder, my first teaching endeavor was in Prague, Czech Republic, where I taught for the SPUSA Education Center and for Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty. Over four years, I taught First Certificate English, English Literature, as well as English as a foreign language to students from over 40 countries, on the middle school, high school, and university level.

Upon returning to Colorado, I received my Master of Arts from the University of Colorado Denver in English Education and Curriculum, where I taught for Denver Public Schools at Morey Middle School, teaching Drama and Writing. I left to begin my Doctorate of Philosophy in Education Research and Studies at the University of Colorado Denver, where I was a Research Assistant. In 2012, I was offered a position as a certified College Board Advanced Placement Language and Composition teacher at the American School Foundation of Mexico City, where I taught AP Language and English One for two years, as well as traveling, before returning to Colorado, Denver, and Morey Middle as the Highly Gifted and Talented Language Arts Instructor.
